

Digital Citizenship: Raising Kids in Our 24/7 Connected Culture

Teaching Students to Be Responsible, Respectful, and Safe Digital Citizens

Presented by Rebecca Randall
Vice President of Education Programs
Common Sense Media

Tuesday, January 25, 2011
7-8:30pm

Blach Middle School Auditorium
1120 Covington Rd., Los Altos

The presentation provides an overview of today's digital media landscape—what's new about it and how it has influenced the way kids learn, socialize, and play—for better and for worse. The presenter discusses social networking sites, sexting, cyberbullying, and more. Additionally, the presenter offers expert guidance on how parents can guide kids to make responsible, respectful, and safe choices in the digital world and beyond.

Common Sense Media is a non-partisan, not-for-profit organization dedicated to improving the lives of kids and families by providing the trustworthy information, education, and independent voice they need to thrive in a world of media and technology. Our nation's children spend more time with media and digital activities than they do with their families or in school, which profoundly impacts their social, emotional, and physical development.

Rebecca Randall is the Vice President of Education Programs at Common Sense Media. Rebecca has more than a decade of experience working in the non-profit sector on behalf of children and families. Rebecca is a widely sought after speaker on kids' media and technology use. Rebecca holds a BA in Social Work from the University of New Hampshire and an MA in Social Service Administration from the University of Chicago.
